ASOMVEL

"These guys calmly walk on, bludgeon your senses with a baseball bat and then retire to the bar, leaving you with what's left of your mind in a pool in your pants."

ASOMVEL are a four-piece hard rock band from the U.K., notorious for excessive volume, and high-octane stage shows.

The band released their latest album, 'Born to Rock 'n' Roll' on March 29th 2024, following a year of tremendous growth with their music reaching new fans around the world, due to their incredible social media presence.

ASOMVEL are currently touring the new album with numerous sold out shows, and high profile international festival appearances such as Barcelona Rock Fest, and Bloodstock Open Air.

No strangers to adversity, the band was shaken to its core when front-man, Jay-Jay Winter, was killed in a road accident, barely a year after ASOMVEL released their debut LP. Although a devastating tragedy, co-founding guitarist, Lenny, knew that the band had to continue in tribute to the determined spirit of their founder.

Since recruiting Jay-Jay's nephews, Ralph, on vocals, and Stel on guitar, the band has performed around the world; including a tour of South America, Japan, and all around Europe. These dates included many well-respected festivals and lengthy tours with well-established artists.
