

Levara

LEVARA brings together three musicians whose careers had already taken them across continents before they ended up in the same room. The Los Angeles-based band unites vocalist Jules Galli, guitarist and producer Trev Lukather, and drummer Josh Devine.

Born in France, Jules Galli built his reputation through relentless touring, including time on the road as a background vocalist for Jane's Addiction. Trev Lukather, son of Toto guitar legend Steve Lukather, has written and produced for artists including Halestorm, Billy Corgan and Dorothy, and co-founded the band The Effect with drummer Nic Collins. Josh Devine, best known as the longtime drummer for One Direction, relocated from the UK to Los Angeles, where his chemistry with Jules and Trev became the backbone of LEVARA's sound.

In 2019, LEVARA opened for Toto across Europe, leading to a deal with Mascot Records and the release of their self-titled debut album in 2021. COVID and internal difficulties brought things to an abrupt halt. Five years later, Jules and Trev quietly began writing together again, Josh returned to the drum chair, and the connection reignited instantly.
